The International Crops Research Institute for the Semi-Arid Tropics is a nonprofit scientific educational institute receiving support from donors through the Consultative Group on International Agricultural Research. Donors to ICRISAT include governments and agencies of Australia, Belgium, Canada, Federal Republic of Germany, Finland, France, India, Italy, Japan, Netherlands, Norway, Sweden, Switzerland, United Kingdom, United States of America, and the following international and private organizations: Asian Development Bank, Deutsche Gesellschaft für Technische Zusammenarbeit (GTZ), International Development Research Centre, International Fund for Agricultural Development, The European Economic Community, The Opec Fund for International Development, The World Bank, and United Nations Development Programme. Information and conclusions in this publication do not necessarily reflect the position of the aforementioned governments, agencies, and international and private organizations.

The designations employed and the presentation of the material in this publication do not imply the expression of any opinion whatsoever on the part of ICRISAT concerning the legal status of any country, territory, city, or area, or of its authorities, or concerning the delimitation of its frontiers or boundaries.

Where trade names are used this does not constitute endorsement of or discrimination against any product by the Institute.

Chickpea Genetic Resources at ICRISAT

The world collection of chickpea, maintained at ICRISAT Center, now contains more than 15000 accessions from 41 countries. The number of accessions continuously increases not only as samples are added by collections in India and other countries through expedition and by correspondence, but also by the addition of elite breeding lines, genetic-stocks, and new selections.

Many of the accessions in the ICRISAT gene bank were obtained from institutions in India and abroad. The former Regional Pulse Improvement Program (RPIP), a joint research effort of the Indian Agricultural Research Institute (IARI), United States Agency for International Development (USAID), United States Department of Agriculture (USDA), and Karaj Agricultural University in Iran, assembled large collections of various pulses between 1964 and 1970. These collections were assembled from germplasm collections in India and other nations with known genetic diversity, and by extensive collection efforts. With the phasing out of RPIP in 1970, collections remained at the institutions mentioned above and at some other Indian Universities. After ICRISAT came into existence in 1972 and assumed responsibility as a world repository for genetic resources of chickpea, various institutions holding chickpea germplasm donated their collections to ICRISAT. Field collections by ICRISAT scientists from priority areas, such as Afghanistan, Bangladesh, Ethiopia, Morocco, and some states in India have led to more than 2000 new accessions.

For a systematic evaluation, documentation and utilization of these accessions, various information has been collected and generated about each of them by the use of an internationally accepted common language that we call 'descriptors'.

Chickpea Descriptors

Descriptors are used to describe any chickpea accession. Information is increased by adding to the number of descriptors. For example a new botanical trait or reaction to a biotic or abiotic stress can be identified and included in the list of descriptors. At present 32 descriptors are in use for chickpea accessions in the ICRISAT gene bank. These have been grouped into four categories: passport information, characterization, preliminary evaluation, and specialized evaluation. Although chickpea accessions were described before the publication 'Chickpea Descriptors' was finalized (IBPGR, ICARDA, and ICRISAT. 1975: IBPGR, Rome), the basic concept and description of characters were similar and compatible. This explains why the series numbers in that publication may not be exactly in line with the number given in this catalog which deals only with passport information of chickpea accessions conserved in ICRISAT gene bank.

Passport Information

Passport information consists of data recorded at the time of collection of an accession together with identifying characteristics, original habitat and local names. These data are important for the predictive and adaptational value of an accession. The scientist who collects the material records most of these descriptors. However, these data are mostly incomplete for germplasm donated by, or assembled from, other centers. The information is complete for all the accessions that have been collected in various countries by ICRISAT. The data sheet used to collect passport and other original information is shown on page vi. The following items are recorded under the numbers for each descriptor correspond to the column heads of the tabular passport information that starts on page 1.

1. ICRISAT chickpea accession number (ICC)

An accession number is assigned when a sample is registered in the gene bank. This is preceded by the acronym ICC which stands for 'ICRISAT Chickpea'. This is a unique and permanent identifier for each accession. Once assigned, this number will never be assigned to another sample. When an entry is lost, its ICC number is not re-used, and every effort is made to replace a lost accession by an identical one or a portion of the original sample from somewhere else.

2. Pedigree or identity

This is an original code number, or the number assigned by the collector or the institute that donated the sample. For a line which has been developed by hybridization, mutation or selection technique, the information on parent(s) involved is also given. There are several codes related with this information, their explanations (to the authors' best knowledge) are given below.

The meaning of the codes AF, AL, ANO, AYT, BA, B.CH, CIC, CPEB, CPO, D, DW, E, FAAU, GN, GNR, GR, GT, HP, I, ICP, IM, IP, JPI, KC, KE, KW, NMO, NPD, NPG, PBR, PD, PI, PL GR, PLM GR, PLS, PR, PRIT, P X T, RIH, RO, PR, S, SP, SR, ST, SVP, TR, TT, U, V (Mexico), WT, Y, is not clearly known. We invite readers to inform us if they have any information.

3. Precise location of origin

This is name of the village, district, or exact distance and direction from a known place from which the sample was obtained. For most of the accessions assembled in the ICRISAT gene bank this information is not known. However, this information is complete for all the accessions collected by ICRISAT scientists to date.

4. Province of origin

This is the name of the administrative unit immediately below that of country. For example in India, the state's name is referred to in this descriptor.

5. Country of origin

This provides information by code on the country of origin of an accession, not the name of the dispatcher. The country names are abbreviated in three letter codes according to the Statistical Office of the United Nations. Codes and full name of the countries where chickpea is grown are given below.

Code	Country	Code	Country
AFG	Afghanistan	JOR	Jordan
BGD	Bangladesh	KEN	Kenya
BGR	Bulgaria	LBN	Lebanon
BUR	Burma	LKA	Sri Lanka
CHL	Chile	MAR	Morocco
COL	Colombia	MEX	Mexico
CYP	Cyprus	MWI	Malawi

INIA	Instituto Nacional de Investigaciones Agricolas, Mexico City, Mexico
LPES	La Platina Experiment Station, INIA, Santiago, Chile
RARI	Regional Agricultural Research Institute, Izmir, Turkey
REHOVOT <sup>1</sup>	Hebrew University of Jerusalem, Rehovot, Israel
USDA ARS	United States Department of Agriculture, Agricultural Research Station, Pullman, Washington, USA

7. Accession identity synonyms

An accession might be known by additional identity names. Most of these have codes. The possible explanations of these codes are similar to those given in Section 2 above. All the synonym names and additional identifying numbers and codes are on computer at ICRISAT and constitute a dynamic germplasm data base that is referable and retrievable.
